ABOUT ME

Hello, my name is Cecil Hammett I am a 21-year-old Computer Science student currently searching for an internship position. I attended my first two years of higher education at Fordham University Lincoln Center in New York City, and am now completing my degree at Queensland University of Technology in Brisbane, Australia.

My academic journey thus far has given me the opportunity to expand my knowledge in many different areas along with having the opportunity to work with diverse groups in software development and project management. My Computer Science curriculum consisted in courses like Discrete Structures of Computer Science, Information and Data Management, Database Management, Algorithms and Complexity, Networks, Project Management, Information and Web Development (HTML, CSS, JavaScript), Programming Principles (C#), Computer Science I (C++), and Software Development (Java) which have given me a significant knowledge and understanding in the field.

When considering what kind of internship I am searching for in the vast field of technology I hold the idea of Terminus a quo...terminum ad quem— an old Latin saying which means “We move from where we are to where we’re supposed to be” very close to heart. Not only have my courses in University provided me with the necessary knowledge needed to advance in this next chapter of life, but also computer science as a whole has taught so much more than what is listed in my curriculum above. Databases, coding, design, debugging, documentation, and everything else that goes into being a “computer [girl]” has also instilled in me patient, focus, and persistence. Qualities that I not only will use personally in my life but also as a way to help others.

If offered an internship position with your company I promise to be constantly learning each day. I am a hard worker and fast learner and I intend to use these qualities not just for myself but for the people who surround me as well. Through shared knowledge, I hope for this internship to open my mind to new discoveries and ideas and broaden my understanding of the field in ways that are simply not possible in a classroom.
